Empower Student Voice. Build School Culture.

Today's students have pressures coming at them from many different directions. The Internet and cell phones relentlessly remind them of these pressures 24 hours per day. Because bullying, drug abuse, and self-esteem constantly affect student happiness and mental health, it has become crucial for every student to step up as difference makers that can generate a positive change in the world. Hosted by Danny Esposito, a master storyteller who connects with audiences through the perfect blend of humor and inspiration, the TEEN TRUTH: School Assembly will empower students to identify the pressures they face, find their voices, and take action to be the difference!

About Danny Esposito

Inspirational speaker and certified consultant, Danny Esposito is a sought after presenter for issues related to youth, strategic leadership, SEL issues and developing healthy worldviews. Since 1996 he has spoken to thousands at live events across the country and around the world. He has given over 2,000 keynote messages and his words have reached many through conferences, symposiums, youth rallies, and school assemblies. He is a passionate storyteller who uses humor, inspirational story telling, and powerful activities to educate students on the importance of telling their truth. He believes that the key to leaving a meaningful legacy is in intentionally inspiring and equipping others to believe they're valuable, made for more and destined for greatness.

Danny holds a Bachelors in Organizational Leadership from Southeastern University and is consultant for the Princeton Youth Leadership program. He is a certified leadership trainer with the Miller Heiman Group and is also certified in strategic implementation and project management through Villanova University. Danny and his wife, reside in Florida with their two children, and he proudly serves as TEEN TRUTH's most passionate and inspiring speaker.

"Danny came to our school and did such an amazing job encouraging students to be kind and full of wonder."
